FORD WORK STARTS MONDAY

FIVE KILLED WHEN PLANES CRASH IN MID-AIR

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

The old guard dies, but it never surrenders — even to facts.

* * * *

Yesterday a certain weekly Richmond paper made its bow to the public, with a date line of "July 25th." carrying the following headlines:

* * * *

* * * *

The story, which carries a Detroit date line and a "Special Correspondence" credit line declares that new bids are being received by the Ford company as all of the other bids were rejected.

* * * *

And the story is ended with a statement that "It would hardly require a pessimist to predict that Ford is 'stalling' and that in view of the above statement, Ford is getting 'cold feet.' It is believed that the contract will be awarded by the first of September.'

* * * *

This story appeared in the paper after papers were on the streets with a complete story of the awarding of the Ford contracts to the Clinton Construction company and the details of the new $3,500,000 building on the inner harbor.

* * * *

From the appearance of the story in the above mentioned weekly "newspaper" the Old Guard will never admit that Henry Ford will build a factory in Richmond.

* * * *

Interested onlookers are wondering what the "newspaper" will carry on the Ford plant in its next edition.

* * * *

* * * *

Just as an after-thought, today is the last day that you may register for the coming primary election.

* * * *

And if you don't register—you still have the right to express your own opinion on candidates.

* * * *

But like the residents of Folsom and San Quentin, you cannot vote.

* * * *

Voting is not a task. It is your duty.

* * * *

The men you vote for administer the law, and govern your state, county or community.

* * * *

If you don't vote, you play no part in the governing of your country.

GUN WOMAN ROBS CLERK

MARTINEZ, July 25.—Chivalry last night cost C. P. Stephens of Concord exactly $25.

On returning to his home last night, Stephens was stopped on Mt. Diablo street by a young woman, who asked his assistance in starting her stalled car. When they started toward the parked automobile, Stephens was suddenly halted by a gun poked in the side and the admonition to "throw up your hands."

The fair bandit then forced him into a dark alley, where she relieved him of his pocketbook containing $25. The woman then went across the city park, warning him to "stay here until I'm out of sight."

Stephens, a clerk in a Concord store, reported that the gun-toting woman appeared to be about 28 years of age and a brunette.

ATHLETE HIT BY FALLING MACHINE

MEXICO CITY, July 25.—UP—Their wings interlocked in a collision at an altitude of 2000 feet, two military airplanes provided a thrill of horror to thousands of eye witnesses today as they rocketed helplessly to earth.

Four aviators, two to each plane, were killed when their Douglas bombers fell from formation and splintered upon the fronton courts of the Carranzas Athletic park, near Valbuena flying field.

The death toll reached five when a fronton player was crushed by the descending aircraft. Another player was reported to have been injured.

The dead:

Pt. Raoul Mugica. Lieut. Napoleon Roja, Lieut. Humberto Enriquez, Lieut. Pablo Caso Lopez, unidentified man.

Formation Flight

With a number of other military planes, the two bombers had gone aloft from the air field for a period of formation flying. The plane blamed for the collision had just joined the formation when its motor failed.

Persons on the ground viewing the maneuvers said they heard the sound of an explosion. The planes were turning when their wings became entangled and began dropping toward the vicinity of the Plaza Canadelaria where scores of pedestrians might have been killed.

A large part of one of the planes was wrenched loose and fell a half mile away from the section of the athletic park that received most of the wreckage. Liuet. Roja attempted without success to use his parachute.

Players Run

The Carranzas park, popularly known as the workmen's athletic grounds because it was established for the recreation of the laboring class, became a scene of terror as the planes came near to the fronton courts.

After the crash officials investigating the disaster barred the park gates and prevented a crowd of 10,000 persons from entering until the bodies could be removed.

Let Us Give Thanks

The RECORD-HERALD believes this is a time to give thanks. There is much that the people of this city have to be thankful for. We believe that the great majority are jubilant over what the future holds in store for Richmond.

There is not another city on the Pacific Coast where the prospects are as bright as in "our own home town." Richmond is on the eve of a period of great prosperity and development. The next ten years should see it with a population of close to 75,000.

We have all the advantages to induce growth, and no disadvantages. We have cheap fuel and power, deep water, two transcontinental railroads, and another one that will soon enter the city; a most salubrious climate, not surpassed by any other city in the United States.

The crowning act that has taken place in the development of Richmond was the signing Thursday in San Francisco of the contracts for the $5,000,000 plant of the Ford Motor company. Ford has shown his faith in this city. In the next ten months will be erected a factory of which not only Ford but the people of Richmond will feel proud.

There are many people and organizations that are entitled to credit for placing Richmond on the way to great development. The RECORD-HERALD wishes to return thanks not only on its own behalf, but acting for the general public of this city for the following achievements:

To the Ford Motor company for selecting this city for a great factory.

To the Chamber of Commerce, the city council, city officials, the Parr Terminal corporation, the Southern Pacific railroad, the Santa Fe railroad, the business men and individuals who put their shoulders to the wheel, and by concerted action made the present situation possible.

For the turning of the city's mud flats into a modern harbor, with a channel of thirty feet, all within the period of three and a half years.

To the Filice and Perelli company for their faith in Richmond for building a $400,000 fruit cannery.

For the securing of a decision from the Interstate Commerce Commission, putting this city on a parity with surrounding cities, so far as freight rates are concerned, and making Richmond a port of call.

To the Santa Fe for its million dollar improvement, now in progress, which will transform marsh land into industrial sites, on which eventually will be located great industries.

To the Southern Pacific in cooperating with the city government and those in charge of development, at all times working in complete harmony.

To the Berkeley Water Front company for its initiative in preparing for a third great railroad and an immense terminal, by adopting plans for the improvement of 241 acres on the water front, the filling in and bulkheading of which will cost over $1,000,000.

To the MacMillan Oil company, to the Richfield Oil company, for their new Richmond plants; and to the Pacific Molasses company in locating here and making Richmond the second largest molasses port in the United States.

They have all been brought about in the past five years.

No other city in California can boast of such progress, in such a short period of time.

And these things are but the beginning of more to come.

We are proud of those who have worked untiringly and brought about these accomplishments. It has only been possible through thorough team work.

AGAIN WE EXTEND THANKS.

It is expected that final arrangements for the parade and celebration will be completed within the next few days.

In connection with the building of the plant, it was learned that the Parr-Richmond Terminal company, through its president, Fred D. Parr, has donated a strip of land near the Filice and Perrelli cannery which may be used for the construction of buildings to shelter the engineers and plans during the building of the plant.

To Name Engineers

It is expected that within the next few days the Ford company at Detroit will announce the appointment of its engineers who will supervise the construction of the new plant.

That the work will be rushed was indicated when the Ford company stated that it expects to have the plant finished in ten months.

The assembling plant will employ 2400 men and will have a daily output of 400 cars.

Throwing Of Pop Bottles Hit By Rule

NEW YORK, July 25.—UP—With the Brooklyn Robins just one-half game ahead of the pack in the National league, Brooklyn fans are taking their baseball seriously, so seriously that John Heydler, president of the league, has barred pop bottles from Ebbets field.

Heydler's order might be construed as merely a gesture by outsiders, but to those who know the psychology of the ups and downs of Manager Wilbert Robinson', Robins, the move becomes one of regard for personal safety.

Years ago the pop bottle made its appearance simultaneously with the Robins championship aspirations and were as quickly relegated to the scrap heap. The Robins dropped to sixth place and stayed there. Now with the Chicago Cubs on the heels of the Robins, fans will again take their soft drinks in paper cups.

Among those who have felt the discourtesy of bottle showers this year have been umpires and visiting players. Even members of the Robins have felt the sting of the "Bronx cheer" from the fans at the Flatbush park.

The Brooklyn pulse beats rapidly when the Robins are ahead but let them drop into second place and it apparently becomes amatter of civic importance.

Commission To Decide S. P. Merger Plan

SAN FRANCISCO, July 25—The Interstate Commerce Commission will decide whether or not the Southern Pacific will take over the St. Louis Southwestern railroad.

At the same time it was announced by Southern Pacific officials here that there was no intention of acquiring the Chicago and Alton, running from Chicago to St. Louis and Kansas City.

Before Commission

The railroad expansion scheme came officially before the commerce commission when the Southern Pacific applied for permission to take over the Cotton Belt route and for approval of its financial "set-up."

The commission was told 87,200 shares of preferred stock of the Cotton Belt and 42,600 of the common stock already had been acquired and that the Southern Pacific held options on an additional 59,380 shares of preferred and 24,700 shares of common. These holdings, to cost $7,887,000, would give the Southern Pacific control of the road it seeks in orde rto tap the rich Mississippi valley.

Asks Change

The Southern Pacific also asks the commission to change its plan of last December which allotted the Cotton Belt to the Illinois Central as part of a general consolidation of railroads.

At hearings, which are requested, the Southern Pacific promised to produce facts and figures to prove its acquirement of the Cotton Belt would be to the better interests of the public.

ROAD PROGRAM ANNOUNCED BY STATE

SACRAMENTO, July 25—Approving the program of state highway extensions recommended in the report of B. B. Meek, director of the State Department of Public Works, the California State Automobile association issued a statement analyzing the report and acclaiming it as a triumph for the policy of expanding the highway system on the basis of state-wide use and actual traffic needs.

The association statement followed issuance in Sacramento today of the Department of Works report on the survey of the state highway system which has been under way for the past year.

The motorists' organization, which has taken an active part in support of the principle that highway extensions should be based upon a coherent and scientific plan rather than political pressure, declared that the recommended additions are in entire accordance with the resolution unanimously adopted by the legislature of 1929, authorizing the survey.

Report Reviewed

Commenting upon the report, D. H. Lafferty, president of the Automobile association, said:

"We have reviewed the report which the State Department of Public Works will make to the next Legislature in which is a list of projects recommended for inclusion in the secondary system of state highways. We find this report to be comprehensive and it has our approval.

"The former manner of selecting additions to our state system of highways is one that has given us concern for many years. We have contended that the haphazard selection of roads and the 'trading' that has brought many roads into the system was wrong. It resulted in some roads being designated state highways that are purely local in character and it has tended to unbalance our highway program.

"When the present three-cents gas tax was put into effect this association adopted a policy of opposing future additions unless they were needed to round out the system or care for traffic that was purely state-wide in character. We believed then, as we do now, that the only method of properly ascertaining whether or not various projects met these requirements was to make an unbiased survey."

Plans Told

The significance and value to the motoring public of the proposed extensions included in the program for northern and central California, was reviewed in a summary prepared by the highway committee of the automobile association, of which H. J. Brunnier is chairman. The summary follows:

WEED TO KLAMATH FALLS—This route will form a connection between the Pacific highway in California and the California-Dalles highway in Oregon, one of the most important north and south highways in that state. The Oregon highway is practically "dead-ended" at Klamath Falls at present for lack of this connection.

The building of this section will connect the vast area east of the Cascade Mountains in Oregon with the California highway system. It will bring this region into direct contact with Sacramento, Oakland, San Francisco, and other trade centers of northern and central California. It will be the only state highway between California and central Oregon.

New Link

ALTURAS TO LAKEVIEW—This is a link on the Yellowstone cut-off, a direct route from the San Francisco bay region to the Boise territory. This road has been in the Federal aid system for several years, but has not been designated a state highway. It is another missing link in the connection of the California highway system with that of Oregon. Its designation as a state highway will permit the use of Federal aid funds which could not be obtained in the past in spite of the fact that the road was in the Federal system and affords the only state highway connection between California and eastern Oregon.

QUINCY TO NEVADA STATE LINE—This section will really be a connection of the North Fork of the Feather river lateral, with the state highway system of Nevada.

Nevada has constructed a paved highway to the state line at the point where it will be joined by this new road from Quincy. This route is generally known as the "All Year" route into northern and central California, on account of its low passes and comparative freedom from snow. Aside from its commercial importance this section will open up a vast recreational area and a region of impressive scenic beauty.

Tunnel Laudde

AMERICAN CANYON ROUTE—This section when built will save a distance of five miles between the San Francisco bay region and Sacramento, as well as eliminating many railroad grade crossings on the present road. It will relieve traffic congestion between the north end of Carquinez bridge and Fairfield by providing a new route between those points through the American Canyon, supplanting the present circuitous route.

WALNUT CREEK TO OAKLAND—This section lies between the Broadway tunnel and Walnut Creek, in Contra Costa county. Alameda and Contra Costa counties have organized a joint highway district for the purpose of building a new tunnel through the Contra Costa hills. The proposed new tunnel will be at a much lower elevation than the present one, which has become inadequate. Practically all the traffic through the tunnel and over the road to Walnut Creek is state in character. The new road will have an alignment that will permit its being built according to present day standards, with a minimum of grades and curves.

Corey Nine To Meet Linkers At San Pablo

New faces will be plentiful in the lineup of the Corey Garage nine Sunday afternoon when it tangles with the Odd Fellows at San Pablo.

The Corey team has been a sort of storehouse for all the other teams in the vicinity this year, and, with the opening of the Elks league, great gaps have been left in its usually well-filled ranks. Its main loss is "Lefty" Brendel, who has become a member of the pitching staff of the Richmond Elks. Brendel has been doing sensational chucking for the garagemen, and his vacancy will be hard to fill.

No announcement has yet been made as to the new personnel of the Corey aggregation, but it is believed that it will be hard to recognize when it comes out on the San Pablo diamond Sunday afternoon to give battle to the local lodgemen.

Doyle Taylor, left handed chucker, will twirl for the Odd Fellows Sunday, while Bill Gualdoni, a veteran in the ranks of the Odd Fellows will be in his usual position behind home platter.

The contest is scheduled to begin at 2:30 o'clock at San Pablo.

3 Men Die On Gallows For Police Death

KANSAS CITY, July 25—UP—A broad gallows trap was sprung in the execution chamber of the county jail here today and three men, convicted of murdering a patrolman during a bank robbery fell simultaneously through a yard-square opening to their death.

The trap, which hurtled Tony "Lollypop" Mangiajacina, Carl Nasello and John Messino to a common fate at the end of three ropes, was released at 6:05 a. m.

Nasello was pronounced dead at 6:23, and his two companions at 6:24 a. m.

The men walked erectly to their death. All were smiling.

Nasello and Mangiajacina asked Messino to make a last statement for them all.

"Good-bye, folks; we have no hard feelings," he said in a voice without fear.

The hoods were adjusted and the three men said good-byes to each other.

The case of the three was given wide attention throughout the nation because the Republican national convention was in session here when the crime was committed.

It became a heated local issue because of the popularity of the murdered patrolman James H. "Happy" Smith, traffic director near the Home Trust company which was held up just prior to the shooting.

The doomed men, whose arms were lashed behind them just after the reading of the death warrant in their cells, were lined up single file on the trap. Three black squares were painted on the gallows floor. The men stood on these, close together.

Father Frank G. McGowan gave them their last religious consolations. Death masks were adjusted quickly. At a signal five electricil buttons were pressed in another room and the trap fell automatically.

GIRL GRILLED BY POLICE IN DEATH

DETROIT, July 25.—Every woman with whom Gerald Buckley, slain radio announcer, has been familiar with during the past two years is being sought by local police for grilling.

It is said that a telephone call made by a woman from a room in the La Salle hotel put Buckley "on the spot."

Police today questioned Jeanne Alexandrea, a beautiful brunette actress. She was released after two hours. Police say she had known Buckley for a number of years.

Another girl, whose name was withheld by the police, is being sought by police.

About 200 persons were rounded up last night by city and state police in an endeavor to get evidence from the underworld on the Buckley killing.

Evelyn O Hara, pretty Irish girl and secretary to Buckley, who was with him until midnight, assisting in the broadcast of the election returns the night he was killed, continued in hiding today, fearing for her own life. She has told the police all she knew of Buckley's affairs, Chenot said.

The police are still holding Jack Klein, moving picture operator, who sat beside Buckley when the three assassins riddled him with bullets.

"This man motioned Buckley into one of the two chairs which were placed in an unusual and conspicious place in the hotel lobby," John Watts, assistant prosecutor said.

where. In short, the work of repairing the colossal damage by the quake is going ahead with dispatch despite the dazing effect of the disaster. The people are showing signs of renewed interest in their surroundings and what they can do to reconstruct their homes and start life anew.

Estimates of the dead as tabulated by the United Press remained at approximately 3,700.

It appeared doubtful that the exact totals of dead would ever be accurately obtained.. I have sought to find definite records, but these were destroyed in the ruins of the towns.

Difficult Work

The relief workers have already done much to aid the sufferers. They have had difficulty in traversing the steep mountain highways and lanes off the main roads which lead over the hills to the hamlets which suffered most.

The army division at Naples has dispatched about 250 motor trucks into the stricken provinces, centering on Avellino and Benevento, where they are worst needed. This fleet of relief trucks has been augmented by 23 motor tanks.

The division has hurried into this area about 7,500 tents capable of giving safe shelter to over 30,000 persons. Their supplies already on hand and being distributed include 1,500 field blankets.

Relief Sent

The Naples army unit has also sent in for distribution 156,000 cans of preserved meat; 118,000 rations of biscuit, 5,500 mattress covers, besides a number of camp kitchen and medical supplies

They have aided in puting the relief work on an efficient, if somewhat military basis. They have sent in special lighting apparatuses enabling the relief work to continue at night.

A detachment of the engineers corps has erected a number of radio stations for inter-communications; and one powerful station has been set up, complementing the regular telegraph and telephone lines.

Under - Secretary of Public Works Leoni is in charge of the government relief machinery at Rochetta San Antonio. The government has taken complete charge of the relief work, discouraging private or public funds raised to aid the victims.

ENTIRE TOWN WIPED OUT BY BIG QUAKE
(By Thomas Morgan)

AQUILONIA, Italy, July 25—UP—The horror of Wednesday's earthquake appears to have reached its climax in Aquilonia.

I reached here from Benevento today to find this town of 3,000 persons crushed and suffering untold grief and misery. The city was destroyed. Local authorities say that 1,000 persons perished here in the earthquake.

Companies of soldiers are trying still to extricate bodies from the ruins. An awful odor of death is diffused in the hot, still summer air.

I saw today 130 mangled bodies buried in one large hole. They resembled casualties in a battle.

Leoni has called a meeting of prefects and other civil and military authorities. He is trying to co-ordinate the work and get it pushed ahead rapidly and efficiently. He has stressed the need of food supplies and tents.

The Engineers corps has been particularly active since arriving on the scene of the quake. Members have told me they think it likely many of the towns destroyed will be located at other spots when rebuilt.

They favor placing them in valleys, for the towns destroyed were those on the very tops of hills—are relics of medievial times when such gatherings of the people into communities on hill tops was necessary for self-defense.

The engineers are supervising the clearing away of the debris in crumbled towns, and the pulling down of cracked and dangerous buildings or walls. Others in as yet isolated spots are engaged in preliminary reconstruction.

The hill town of Aquilonia today is in ruins, absolutely destroyed. While the new Aquilonia, built in the valley by the government, remained intact. Almost every family among the older inhabitants on the hill suffered some dead and injured and the destruction of their property.

NANCY CARROLL AT CALIFORNIA TOMORROW

It is an original play by Edmund Goulding, sensational author-director who wrote and directed Gloria Swanson's "The Trespasser."

Goulding chose a typically American locale, the Mid-Western wheat country, for this stirring romance drama. It concerns the lives of God-fearing farmers and the enemy-breed, the urbanites who attempt to prey upon them.

As a gold-digging manicurist in league with several tricky salesmen, Miss Carroll gets a commission for wining and dining the farmer-buyers of agricultural implements. After she gets them "ga-ga" about her, the salesmen put over the finishing touches by closing the sales. It's an "on-the-level" racket, but it's not exactly open and above board, and there comes a day when Nancy regrets that she ever engaged in it, for she falls in love with Phillip Holmes, handsome young son of a wealthy farmer, after she has baited him for a deal with a tractor salesman.

Heavy emotional scenes follow when Nancy tries to compromise her mode of living with the simplicity of life to which Holmes has been accustomed. The story has many stirring, dramatic moments.

FINE CAST IN MIDNIGHT MYSTERY

Thrill mystery drama with a fresh novelty is the substance of "Midnight Mystery," the new Radio Pictures production at the Fox-California theater today. Here is a film graced by a splendid cast, including the ever-aluring Betty Compson and Lowell Sherman, and speeded to a stirring climax by a story that builds to an adroit denouement.

Based on the stage play "Hawk Island" which was one of the recent New York stage triumphs, "Midnight Mystery" marks a departure in the presentation of mystery and melodramatic action. Its novelty lies in a "dummy" murder which later assumes the tragic consequences of the real thing. The solution, by a clever and quick witted girl, is both surprising and smartly handled.

Others in the cast of "Midnight Mystery" are Hugh Trevor, June Clyde, Ivan Lebedeff, Raymond Hatton, Rita La Roy, Marcelle Corday, William Fresley, Burt and Sidney D'Albrook.

Attacker Of Ranch Man Slays Self

SANTA ROSA, July 25.—UP.—Apparently afraid of the justice that was to have been meted out to him, Joseph Grinella, assailant of Louis Pardini, Mendocino county rancher, was found dead from self inflicted wounds here today.

Grinella shot Pardini in the back with his shot gun early last Monday during an argument. Pardini recovered from the wound but Grinella thinking the shot had been fatal crept away to a nearby thicket and blew out his brains with the same gun with which he attempted to slay his partner.

Sheriff Ralph Byrns ended a four day search for Grinella today when he returned to the scene of the tragedy and found the man's body concealed behind a thicket 300 yards away.

RAIL MAGNATE PRAISED BY REALTOR

By E. J. BURG, President Burg Bros., Inc. Richmond Realtors

The coming of the great Northern Railway into Richmond and the building of its terminal here in the Eastbay is the greatest event in the history of the Pacific Coast since the construction of the Union and Central Pacific railroads—the first transcontinental railway in the United States.

James Hill—that grand old man, the Empire Builder of the new world, whose keen vision foresaw the future greatness of his country—fully realized and rightly interpreted the famous and prophetic words of Dr. Berkeley—"Westward The Course of Empire Takes its Way."

Only a very few of the great men of the '70's, when Hill was arduously struggling for "means and ways" to interest others in his "dreams" and to carry out the inspired vision of his world, could see or understand the greatness and importance of his project and object.

Much Courage

Among those who "could see" and did realize the import of this undertaking, there were some who "did not want to see" and placed every obstacle in the way to prevent the building of his railroads into the great and then unknown West.

His magnificent courage, with faith in himself and country, overcome all obstacles and long before he passed to higher achievements, the major part of his ambition had been gratified; a magnificent empire had been developed in the Pacific Northwest, far beyond the vision of the most optimistic enthusiast. Now one can travel in luxurious comfort over the vast railways that this one man—James Hill had created.

Great Vigor

With greatest vigor and more courage, gained through his triumphant success, this man (aided by his associates) battled his way through the giant obstacles of capital and power until permission was granted by the Interstate Commerce commission, which will bring his magnificent adventure, which had its inception more than a generation ago, to a glorious victory, to the final goal—the end of the Rainbow—the Path of Gold inside the Golden Gate—on the Bay of San Francisco—to the full realization of his dream.

Here on the shores of San Francisco and San Pablo bays, lies the ultimate West, the last outpost of a great civilization, the border of the white man's world, which began with ancient Greece.

In Area

Here is being erected the world's greatest metropolis, the hub of activities, finance, commerce, manufacturing, transportation, wealth, and culture.

RICHMOND, because of its strategic location, at the confluence of the great San Joaquin and Sacramento rivers, bordering on both San Pablo and San Francisco bays, directly in front of the Golden Gate opening into majestic Pacific ocean—will be in the very front rank and center of this vast metropolitan area.

The Hill interests own more than one thousand acres of waterfront land in Richmond and approximately four thousand adjoining acres along the Eastbay shore—where the great transcontinental railroad terminals will be located and constructed at America's western gateway to all Pacific shore ports.

Pacific Commerce

To the north is Alaska and the Pacific Northwest; to the south is Western Mexico, Central and South Americas, teeming in wealth and raw materials; Australia, New Zealand, the Isles of the South Seas, and Eastern Africa. To the west is Hawaii, the Philippines, Russia, Japan, China, and India—"The East"—the dream goal of commerce for centuries, and to this three-fourths of the Earth, with its teeming hundreds of millions—two-thirds of the world's population, the American gateway is the "Golden Gate" San Francisco bay, where Richmond and the Eastbay sits mistress.

These mighty truths were the dream vision of James Hill, now finally to become a reality.

Many of America's greatest industrial leaders, men of vision, the builders of our greatest American cities, are investing millions of dollars in Richmond, and now are building another great industrial city, second to none on the Pacific Coast.

NEW BUICK STRAIGHT EIGHTS TO BE SHOWN IN CITY TODAY

After years of exhaustive research in the field of eight cylinder engines, Buick presents an entirely new and complete line of eight in line, valve in head motor cars for its "1931" models. These new cars are now on display at C. C. Kratzer's showrooms at Tenth street and Bissell avenue.

Starting with a two cylinder car in 1903, Buick changed to a four and then to a six. Now, with a reputation of twenty-seven years standing in the manufacture of outstanding values in the automobile field, Buick offers the public a complete line of eight cylinder automobiles. The eight cylinder engines were adopted to give greater performance—speed, power and efficiency. Improved road conditions throughout the country permit increased speed in travel and it was to meet this need that Buick adopted the eight as lending itself more readily than the six to superior power and smoothness because of the greater number of cylinders and its lighter reciprocating parts.

In developing the new car all the fundamental principles of construction have been maintained upon which Buick's reputation has been built. All features such as valve-in-head design, unit power plant, torque tube drive, sealed chassis, controlled serve-internal brakes and double acting shock absorbers are retained in the 1931 models. In addition the new cars feature a number of major improvements among which the following are outstanding: Eight in line engines in all models, synchromesh transmission, engine oil temperature regulator, dual carburetion, combined intake silencer and air cleaner, new crankcase ventilating system, improved steering gear, one-piece rear axle housing, new clutch, improved frame and body construction and many other details.

20 Models

The new cars are available in twenty models equipped with three sizes of engines on four different wheelbase lengths, 114 in., 118 in., 124 in. and 132 in., comprising the series 8-50, 8-60, 8-80 and 8-90. The largest engine is used in both series 8-20 and 8-90.

The engines are of an improved eight in line, valve-in-head type. There are three sizes. Series 8-50 has a bore and stroke of 2 7-8x4 1-4 inches, a piston displacement of 220.7 cu. in., and develops 76 1-2 horsepower at 3200 R. P. M. Top speed is 75 miles per hour.

Series 8-60 has a bore and stroke of 3 1-16x4 5/8 inches, a piston displacement of 272.6 cu. in., and develops 90 horsepower at 300 R. P. M. Top speed is 82 miles per hour.

New Bore

Series 8-80 and 8-90 has a bore and stroke of 3 5-16x5 inches, a piston displacement of 344.8 cu. in., and develops 104 horsepower at 2800 R. P. M. Top speed of this series is 84 miles per hour.

The upper crankshaft and cylinder block are cast in one piece. Pistons are cast-iron. The crankshaft has five main bearings which are stepped up in size front to rear. It is fully counterbalanced and a new type of torsional balancer is used. This balancer is of the ring type and is far superior to the saddle type formerly used. Four insulated rubber mountings are used to hold the engine to the frame.

The new Buick eight is equipped with the most advanced type of oiling system; all bearings and working parts of the engine are lubricated by pressure directly from an oil pump which is placed in the deepest part of the oil pump. A device for controlling the temperature of the engine oil under all driving conditions is a part of the oil system. This device is the oil temperature regulator which consists of a water-jacketed core through which all oil going to the bearings is passed. This improvement makes possible high sustained driving speeds without excessive engine wear due to overheated bearings and will also add materially to the life of the engine oil. It is estimated that the engine oil need not be changed more than twice a year with this new system.

Heat Control

The Buick-Marvel carburetor and heat control which has proved so successful on all former models is installed on all the new eight-in-line, valve-in-head engines. On the larger motors of the series 8-60 8-80 and 8-90 dual carburetors and manifolds are used. Intake noises caused by valve timing are entirely eliminated by a newly developed combined silencer and air cleaner.

Cooling is accomplished by means of radiator shutters which are controlled by a new type of thermostat. This thermostat is placed directly in the water in the top tank of the radiator, making it possible to control the operations of the shutters within very close limits, automatically.

A new crankcase ventilating system is used in the new Buick cars. The crankshaft with its many counter-weights and balancer acts as a blower which forces all fumes and condensation while in suspension, to the valve lifter compartment from which point they are expelled through a long tail pipe which extends below the engine side-pan.

New Transmission

One of the most important features of the new car is the synchromesh transmission with its ease of shifting and the elimination of gear clash. This is used in the three larger models. The gears can be shifted noiselessly at low speeds in traffic and at high road speeds. The shift from high to second can be made at high speeds and is an important safety measure when coasting down long, steep hills. The transmission control assembly has been moved forward on the transmission case, thus permitting more leg room and freedom of movement in the driving compartment. New clutches are used which give longer life, smooth positive engagement and eliminate all grab and chatter. These clutches are of the two plate and single plate type, are very rugged in construction and will stand many times the abuse of clutches formerly used.

Chassis construction follows the same general lines that have given Buick its enviable reputation for road ability and sturdiness. Chassis and bodies have for the first time been developed as a unit and have been tested over thousands of miles of the most severe types of roads to eliminate body rattles, squeaks and breakages. Chassis are of the sealed type using the Buick torque tube drive. The frames are of double drop construction with exceptionally heavy cross members, the one placed at the center being of a heavy box type. A new type of double acting shock absorber is used which is built directly into the frame and which takes up the give of long semi-elliptical springs having soft action. The car is equipped with four-wheel controlled internal-servo brakes of an improved pattern.

New Gear

A worm and roller steering gear is used. An improvement has been made on the rear axle by the use of a one-piece pressed steel housing which makes it oil tight and of exceptional strength. The whole chassis is lubricated by oil lines which run to a centralized position for easy access.

The Fisher bodies used on the cars have been improved in construction and design although the cars retain the same general body lines as last year. The changes include a revision of roof construction and the use of metal brackets in place of glued joints. The front compartment is insulated from the engine to keep out all sound, heat and cold.

All wheels used on the new cars have been accurately balanced, a factor which is very important at high speeds. Special wheel equipment is available for all models including metal tire covers for use with fender-well assemblies. Gravel reflectors protecting rear wheels and hub caps are furnished with all cars using special wheel equipment.

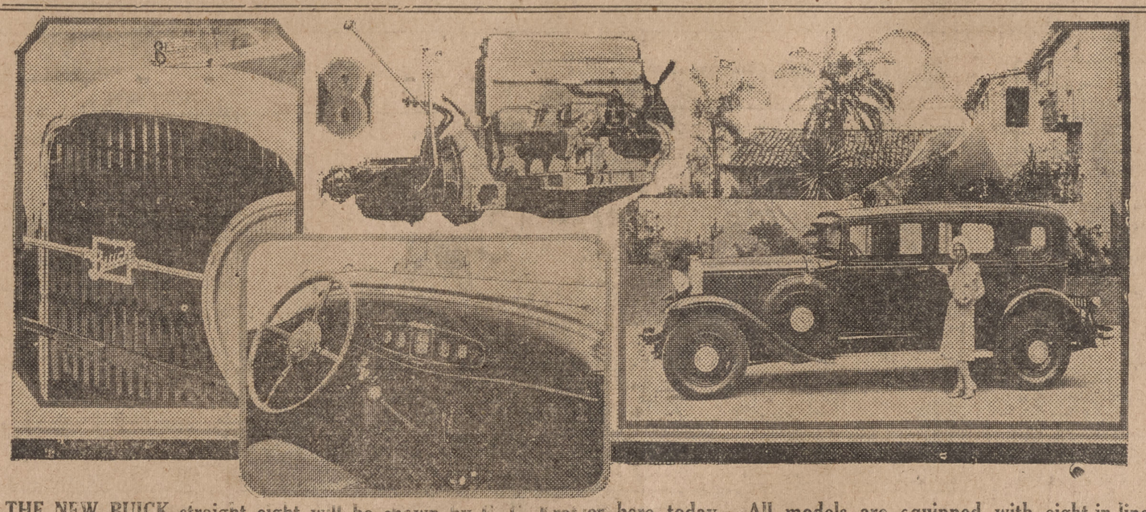
Six Models

Six body models are furnished in the 8-50 series, five in the 8-60 and nine in the 8-80, 8-90 series. A wide range of fashionable new modish colors have been created for the new eights. The interior finish and equipment of the 1931 models set new standards in style, quality and value. Fine quality mohair plushes, broadcloths, whipcords and leathers in a wide variety of colors and finishes are available.

The following features are found on all closed bodies: Fisher VV ventilating, non-glare windshields, distinctive visors, screened ventilators in each side of cowl, adjustable front seats, lower front seats and deeper cushions, mahogany finish garnish mouldings, button style trimming on all cushions and backs, insulated floor mats in front compartments.

The following features are found on all open models: Ventilators in the top and sides of the cowl, ample room in driving compartment, genuine leather upholstery in three colors—maroon morocco grain, black morocco grain and Spanish grain. The tops are new, with long low rakish lines and fold into an exceptionally neat and small package when down, the slat irons are nickel plated and the bows of natural wood. Windshield frames are chrome plated.

New Buick Straight Eight Makes Debut



THE NEW BUICK straight eight will be shown by C. C. Kratzer here today. All models are equipped with eight-in-line valve-in-head motors. Many improvements and refinements have been made throughout the chassis and bodies, including an oil temperature control and syncro-mesh transmission in the larger models. At the left is a view of the distinctive radiator with the figure 8 emblazoned on the cap. At the upper center is the new motor and transmission. Below is instrument panel and right is the new sedan.

FESS WILL BE CHAIRMAN OF G. O. P.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—UP—Simeon D. Fess, Ohio schoolmaster, Senator and Republican whip of the upper house virtually has leadership as the new chairman of the Republican National committee.

Due to the many senate duties of Fess, most of the actual direction of the party's activities will be turned over to Robert H. Lucas, of Kentucky, now internal revenue commissioner, who is scheduled to be named chairman of the party's executive committee here Aug. 7.

On that date Claudius H. Huston's resignation will be accepted at a meeting of the executive committee, the official call for which went out today, and, according to administration senators close to the White House, the new party organization for the November election campaigns will be perfected.

Lucas To Quit

Lucas, as a matter of course, will resign as chief tax expert of the treasury if this program is carried out.

Huston is now chairman of the executive committee as well as the national committee. Naming different men to the two positions will set up an organization paralleling that of the Democrats, who a year ago picked a Wilson-McAdoo Democrat of Kentucky as executive committee leader.

The Democratic national chairman from Tammany, John J. Raskob, was relied upon, as Fess will be, to help in collecting of money and to provide window-dressing.

Fess Important

Fess' selection is an important one, however, because it is through this position the president controls the vast party organization. Unless an upset occurs, the selection of a senator who is such an intimate friend of Hoover as Fess is, will insure Hoover's nomination for president again in 1932 if he wishes.

The Ohioan is 68 years old, but active for his age. His high-pitched voice is frequently heard in senate debate, universally in defense or in support of the administration. He is perhaps most regular of all the Republicans in the senate, more so than the Republican Floor Leader, Watson of Indiana, who has had presidential aspirations himself, or McNary of Oregon, the assistant leader and farm relief advocate.

CHICAGO POLICE HEAD QUIZZED IN PROBE

CHICAGO, July 25.—UP—Jovial William Russell, whose career as Chicago police commissioner came to an abrupt end after the murder of Jake Lingle, was called by a grand jury today to tell what he knew of the slaying of the Chicago Tribune's veteran reporter.

Russell was reported to have been asked to explain the details of his appointment as police commissioner while Mayor William H. Thompson was out of the city. He also was said to have been questioned about his close friendship with Lingle, who, at the same time, was an intimate of "Scarface Al" Capone, gang chief.

During Russell's reign as police head, Lingle frequently was called "Chicago's unofficial chief of police." Other apparently well authenticated reports had it that Lingle dictated the doings of gamblers and bootleggers, promising or withholding "protection" at will.

John Stege, detective commissioner under Russell's regime and another friend of Lingle, also was questioned by the jury.

Other witnesses included a list of newspapermen, called apparently to authenticate or disprove vague charges of widespread racketeering within the ranks of the newspaper fraternity.

The charges made by Harry T. Brundige, St. Louis Star reporter who was called by the jury earlier in the week.

Carolina Senator Shot By Feudist

MONCKS CORNER, S. C., July 25.—State Senator E. J. Dennis, 53, was shot and probably fatally wounded here today in what friends said was the culmination of a political fued of long standing.

"Sporty" Thornley, young Moncks Corner man, was arrested. Surgeons said there was little hope of Dennis' recovery. He was shot in the back three times with a shotgun.

Woman Killed By Heater In Bath Room

LOS ANGELES, July 25.—UP—Apparently dead for several days, the body of Mrs. Helen McIntosh Erwin, 50, was found today in her apartment by Carl A. Eyron, manager of the building.

Mrs. Erwin was found in the bathroom near a partly filled bathtub. An electric heater, which had burnt out, stood on the floor near the tub. According to the coroner, death was due to electrocution when the heater developed a short circuit.

Mrs. Erwin's husband who died several years ago, was at one time the personal physician of Maharajah Yubaraj Kolhapun, police stated.

GIRL HELD ON RUM RUNNING CHARGES

SAN FRANCISCO, July 25.—UP—Dorothy Gardner, pretty 22 year old San Francisco girl, alleged to have been a delivery girl for a bootlegger was in the Ingleside jail this afternoon, unable to raise $1000 bond.

According to government officials, Miss Gardner was arrested on Seventh avenue last week while making a delivery of whiskey and gin. She gave her address as 614 Van Ness avenue but has refused to reveal the name of her employer.

Caterpillar Declares New Dividend, Bonus

SAN FRANCISCO, July 25.—UP—A cash dividend of 75 cents a share and a bonus of 25 cents a share, payable on or before August 15, was announced tonight by the directors of the Caterpillar Tractor company.

Shares outstanding at the end of the first six months of the year totaled 1,882,240. The earnings per share after provision for the federal income tax has been made amounts to $2.99. Nearly $2,000,000 will be paid out by the company in dividends.

With the announcement of the substantial bonus the company also announced the receipt of an order approximating $5,000,000 from the Amtorg Trading corporation, of New York, whose records at present are being investigated in connection with an alleged Communistic propaganda campaign.

Shipments of tractors will be made to Russia during next November, December and January.

El Cerrito Firemen To Hold Party

The El Cerrito volunteer fire department will hold its regular monthly social evening tonight in the El Cerrito city hall.

There will be games and dancing. Several tables of whist will be played, and refreshments will be served.

The monthly social evening of the El Cerrito volunteer fire department has become very popular, and the crowds have become greater each month.

Bank Teller To Face Theft Count

SAN FANCISCO, July 25—E. K. Foreman, assistant teller at the head office of the Bank of Italy here was arrested today on charges of forgery in connection with the alleged theft of $6000 worth of traveler's cheques.

BILLINGS MAY BE PRESENT AT HEARING

SAN FRANCISCO, July 25.—UP—Despite the fact that Chief Justice Waste denied a petition today to allow Thomas J. Mooney and Warren K. Billings to appear at their so-called "retrial" next Tuesday, a possibility still remained that they might be present.

Personal appearance of the convicted duo was requested today by Edwin McKenzie, Billing's attorney who wanted them to be temporarily released from prison in order to be at the hearing to offset any evidence that the supreme court might hear aside from the testimony of John MacDonald.

Justice Waste denied the permission, however, pointing out that the re-hearing Tuesday was only upon Billings' pardon and had nothing to do with Mooney.

McKenzie then withdrew his petition but reserved the right to demand their appearance again, should he deem it advisable.

With Former Assistant Prosecutor Fred Berry representing the people at the Tuesday hearing, and with the repudiation witness, John MacDonald and Former District Attorney Charles Fickert, original prosecutor of the 1916 and 1917 trials present, the re-trial will be almost a duplication of the original trials at which Mooney and Billings were convicted of the Preparedness Day bombing outrage of July 22, 1916.

Business Women's Hands Across the S...

AN ADVENTURE by American women, perhaps as interesting as anything they will undertake this year, begins to-day, with the departure from New York of the group of American business and professional women, who will meet, at Geneva next month, with other business and professional women from thirty different countries, in the first international conference of such women ever held anywhere.

MARGUERITE MOOERS MARSHALL

A distinguished and charming New York woman, Lena Madesin Phillips, heads the sailing party, and has taken the initiative in arranging the Geneva Conference. She is the founder and Honorary President of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, which numbers 60,000 of the keenest and most successful women workers in the United States.

For years they have been co-operating nationally, to solve their common problems and achieve their common aims. Now the leaders believe that this friendly, womanly way of working together should be given world-wide application. The Geneva Conference is the result. Where the League of Nations has come into being, there may be formed another League of the Women of Nations.

This is the third European Good Will Tour undertaken by members of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs. They have learned—perhaps to the astonishment of some of them—that the business woman, the professional woman, is by no means a product trade marked "American." She exists in all European countries to-day, and she has proved charmingly ready, Federation travelers say, to meet her American sisters. Out of the more or less informal meeting of other summers, this year's international conference is born.

THESE women, you see, on both sides of the Atlantic, believe that they share much in common. They are all, in a sense, pioneers. They have to overcome similar obstacles of male prejudice (and female, too), of tradition, of social barriers, of family objections, of inexperience and weakness in themselves (they would deny the existence of neither). They think that if they get together and talk things over they can help one another.

Representatives of each of the thirty countries will bring before the meeting matters of vital importance to the women of their own nation. As The Independent Woman, organ of the Federation, sums up: "Handicaps that must be overcome; methods of business reciprocity; the problem of the older business woman; improved business methods and technique, the promotion of individual business and professional women through constructive publicity, through the education along psychological lines of the women themselves, through legislative effort—these are a few of the problems which undoubtedly will be discussed, and who knows what constructive and valuable solutions may be achieved?"

In addition to the American women leaving to-day for the conference, and for a tour of northern Europe, there are two other groups. One is headed by the First Vice President of the Federation, Mrs. Geline Macdonald Bowman of Richmond, Va. The other group will be led by Miss Cherl A. Williams, National Education Chairman, of Washington, D. C.

"OUR FIRST Good Will Tour in 1928 was undertaken in the hope of promoting international friendship," Mrs. Bowman says. "We believe that women may play a great part in shaping public opinion, and that understanding between the women of race and race, of nation and nation, is a powerful factor in bringing about international understanding.

"But little did we anticipate the spirit of cordiality with which European women would meet us, the interest with which they would seek knowledge of the achievements of our own women. Because of their spontaneous desire and ours, there is being held this Geneva international meeting, to arrive, if possible, at some decision as to how women of many countries, banded together, may help to bring about business equality for the women of the world."

Here, surely, is a gesture of woman-to-woman friendliness which is characteristically the modern "woman of it." Here are American women who should receive the most cordial "bon voyage" from the rest of us who have to stay at home!

SWEETHEART DAYS

Jerry used to take me to the Astor,
Bill thought night clubs nothing but a lark,
But now that I have you, 'most anything will do,
I find it simply lovely in the park!

Philly used to taxi to the opera,
Jack didn't think the Follies worth a fuss,
But now that I have you, 'most anything will do,
I even find enjoyment on a bus!

Stanley used to drive up in a Fiat,
Herbert drove his Rolls-Royce like a lord,
But now that I have you, 'most anything will do,
I think you're pretty grand to have a Ford!

FAREWELL TO ETTARRE

(FOR JAMES BRANCH CABELL)

Young maid of flesh and blood, I hold you close
And whisper words of passion in your ear;
I try to make you believe you're all I need
Because I long to believe it too, my dear.

But though I strive to crush you to my heart
And cause the two of us to be as one,
She stands between: the Vision that a Pen
Brought forth, and now with which the Pen is done.

MIAU! MIAU!

"Sets Altitude Mark, But Loses Her Senses," is a headline on the latest exploit by a young woman flyer. What some of her sex think is that she lost her senses BEFOREHAND. Why do women—or men—do this sort of thing?

The Breakfast In Summer

DURING these warm summer days the wise housewife will make extra efforts to serve an appetizing and nutritious breakfast to her family. She will also have it ready so they can all eat their meal without haste.

This will give a substantial foundation for carrying on the duties of the day and this is quite necessary, for to most of us the noon meal does not appeal. The day is warm and we feel languid, so the lunch is simply a cool beverage and a nibble at eating. With a hearty breakfast this will be sufficient, but if you have rushed from home fortified with only a roll and a cup of coffee or perhaps no breakfast at all, you will pass a miserable afternoon and come home at night with frazzled nerves and too tired to eat.

So eat a good morning meal while you are refreshed and can enjoy it in the cool of the day—the pep it provides will help through the day.

A DISH A DAY

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

In summer when the housewife puzzles over the daily menu-planning and wonders how to provide satisfying, nourishing meals that will appear light and tempting, she should remember that her greatest ally is eggs. There are so many delightful and different ways of preparing them, so many ways of making them attractive both to the eye and the palate, that there is no danger of monotony in the diet, even if eggs play a big part in it daily. You have probably eaten scrambled eggs with tomatoes, and scrambled eggs with sauted kidneys, but have you ever had a combination of the three? here is the way to prepare them:

KAREN HOLLIS

SCRAMBLED EGGS SUPREME

4 tomatoes
½ teaspoon sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash of white pepper
Paprika
1 tablespoon butter
4 lamb kidneys
½ teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
1 tablespoon Worcestershire or Japanese seasoning
4 eggs
½ cup cream
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons butter.

Slice the tomatoes, or cut them in small pieces and put them in a saucepan with sugar, salt and pepper, over a low fire. As they become tender, stir them and beat them, so that a smooth paste is formed. Keep hot over a low fire while the other ingredients are prepared.

Slice the kidneys thin and put them in a saucepan with just enough water to cover the bottom of the pan. When the water bubbles, take them from the stove, and wash them in cold water. Now return them to the stove with the butter and salt and pepper and saute over a low fire while the eggs are cooking.

Beat the eggs briskly without separating them. Add cream and seasoning. Melt the two tablespoons of utter in a skillet, and when it is ery hot pour in the egg mixture. As it begins to solidify, stir gently. Remove from the fire when the eggs are just lightly cooked and heap on a hot platter.

Add the Worcestershire or savory sauce to the kidneys, and arrange them in a mound in the centre of the eggs. Pour the tomato sauce in a ring around the eggs and serve while very hot.

EMPIRE NIGHTGOWN MADE OF PRINTED NINON.

NIGHTGOWN MADE OF HANDKERCHIEF LINEN WITH YOKE OF VAL. LACE.

I DON'T know how you feel about it, but I do know those who feel that this pajama attire for night time is all the bunk. You might just as well place yourself in a vise as to draw that waistline string about your tummy. And that sort of foolishness, of all things, for women who have been handed nice, comfortable, restproducing nighties on the silver salver of tradition.

Added to all this, which is merely airy persiflage on my part—not to mention my deep observation of life—sales statistics in the shops say that the female public's interest in sleeping pajamas has taken a deep decline. The whole trend of buying is toward the dear old nightie. And statistics speak louder than words.

Leave pajamas to the men. They're not really comfortable in them, but still think they have to wear them. They might too, if they dared, discard the fashion altogether and go back to the fun-producing nightshirts, but men are so bound to their established styles that any such abandoned freedom and carelessness of funmaking is not to be hoped for in the near future.

The whole supposition is that pajamas have been tried and found wanting, for during the past few years there has been quite a brisk sale for the sleeping variety. I am not holding forth, you understand, on the inadequacy of pajamas for lounging. Those of picturesque lines and lovely designs are stronger than ever in popular favor for lounging and for the beach.

We are considering now clothes for sleeping in comfort, and for that purpose all votes of the day seem to be in favor of the good old, well tried nightgown.

There is no use arguing the point that the French have nightgown designing and making down to a fine nicety. They are the leaders, and hardly a woman exists who would not far rather have a French nightie than any other. But they do cost money. They are covered with handwork and that, even before the evil duty is added, runs into dollars. However, there are substitutes and substitutes, many of which can hardly be distinguished from the real Parisian thing. Notably are those which are made in Manila and the Philippines.

The story of how Americans have gone to those islands and taught the natives how to make marketable, finely wrought things in underwear is quite a thrilling one. Anyway, and more to the point, is the fact that prices have been cut down so that now you can find handmade nighties for almost any price.

For these handmade night clothes, tailored styles are as good as the more elaborate, lacy ones. It all depends on your type. Wear the tailored ones if you look your best that way—ones that look almost like informal dresses—and wear the dressier ones if they happen better to suit your style of beauty.

TAILORED STYLE IN FLAT CREPE WITH HANDWORK.

Lacy nightgowns are wonderfully made right now. The tobacco colored laces are still good, but perhaps not quite so high in fashion as the paler laces—those with more of a tea tone about them. And the laces are finer than they were—binche, Valenciennes, &c. If you are one of those women who wear white well, then a silk nightie with lace is lovely. If pastels are more becoming, then wear them by all means with lightly tinted laces used for their trimming. In white the handkerchief linens and sheer cottons are fascinating and highly attractive to those who take real pleasure in the feel of lovely materials.

The newest nightgown of them all is the Empire style—made of fine French ninon and designed with little puffed sleeves and a high waistline. The material is printed with rosebuds or dots in an all-over regular pattern. It is a beautifully feminine style and greatly appreciated by those whose types can stand it. You can get just as Empirish as you wish with nightclothes now, and the style does make a nice change from the regular thing.

These gowns and all of the others, in fact, are longer. They touch the floor, just as the evening dresses do, and for that reason their becomingness is increased enormously.

Georgette looks lovely for nighties, but it does roll up into sausages underneath your recumbent form. Rather keep it for looks than for any comfort in wearing.

But satin nightgowns have a soothing feel to the skin, and they wear and wear through many washings. Also they are warmer when winter comes along. And as for this matter of greater warmth, if you are going to the mountains this summer, try a tailored nightie in flat crepe with long sleeves. It is as quaint as can be, and you'll be grateful for the cuff that buttons round the wrists.

THINK IT OVER

By Alfalfa Smith

IS YOUR boy going to enter college this fall?

I regard freshman year as the most important, for in it a young man must find himself, as he will be away from his mother's apron strings.

If your boy is going, permit me to offer this suggestion: First, give him a course in this little exercise—keep your eyes open and your mouth shut.

I do not know of any place where a boy's attitude counts for more than in college. It is there his attitude toward his professors and his attitude toward his fellows counts for a lot.

It would not do the boy a bit of harm to take a job this summer and learn how to handle people. He will need it, especially if he is going to college for the first time this fall.

Summer and Your Perfume

IT was at a garden party we got the idea for this article in a garden filled with lilacs and roses and irises and people. And it was the unmistakable odor of chypre in competition with those flowers that touched us off.

FRANCES OLIVIER

Always a subtle art, the use of perfume in summer is something that requires the guidance of unerring taste, and the most delicate of handling. Heavy musky odors simply will not do. They are all wrong in the flower season. Besides, the high temperature of summer makes them almost offensive to sensitive nostrils.

If perfume must be used, if the habit of scenting one's self has become unbreakable, then it seems to this department that delicate flower odors should be given the preference at this time of year—and then they should be used with the very greatest economy.

Our personal feeling in the matter is that summer perfuming is most delicately and therefore most effectively achieved by the use of matching toilet water, bath salts, dusting powder and bath soap rather than by the use of essences. And, of course, we have in mind subtly scented toiletries—not the "loud" sort.

Summer or any other time, there is one cardinal law of perfuming that no fastidious woman will overlook—and that is the effect of her fragrance on other people. One may dress or make up to please one's self, but perfuming to please one's self is quite another matter. There are male nostrils, for example, that cannot abide obviously perfumed ladies, regardless of how rare or smart or costly their fragrance.

Fancy the sensibilities of these highly sensitized gentlemen at a garden party with chypre or musk or ambergris! Poor dears, they have our sympathy! Heat, you know, serves to intensify these already intense odors.

Most of our readers know that perfumes—even the fragile flower odors—must not be applied directly to the person ever. The very young generation new to the uses of perfume may not be aware of this, however. And so for their benefit we'd like permission to repeat that the nicest, most successful place to drop the favorite essence is on little puffs of absorbent cotton to be tucked away in the lingerie drawer, the hat lining, the coat lining, the hanky box and the glove box.

Ever thought of creating your own perfume? Well, some day soon we are going to print a recipe or two, filched from an antique volume on beauty lore.

AMOS AND ANDY SIGN UP

AMOS AND ANDY arrive in Hollywood on business:

SCENE—Meeting of the Board of Directors of the Titanic Film Corporation.

CHAIRMAN—Gentlemen, we have important business for transaction to-day. Messrs. Correll and Gosden will be here to sign their talking picture contract.

FIRST DIRECTOR—As I understand it, Messrs. Correll and Gosden are Amos and Andy, so-called.

CHAIRMAN—That is correct.

SECOND DIRECTOR—Mr. Chairman, I have a suggestion. Amos and Andy are just a couple of blackface comedians and I believe our corporation can come to the most satisfactory agreement with them if we kid 'em along. You know—get down to their level and talk their language.

CHAIRMAN—A very good idea. Gentlemen, keep that in mind, please. And now, Mr. Secretary, will you show Amos and Andy in?

• • •

CHAIRMAN—Well, well, if it ain't Amos 'n' Andy. Awah, awah, awah!

FIRST DIRECTOR—How am Madame Queen?

AMOS—Gentlemen, let us proceed to business.

SECOND DIRECTOR—You mean "precede," don't you, Amos?

CHAIRMAN—Well, now, Amos 'n' Andy, we'se sort o' been figuratin' on de terms ob de matter here at hand and here am de propalition.

ANDY—The WHAT?

CHAIRMAN—De propalition, Andy, you dumb skull!

ANDY—Just a moment, now. My name is Freeman Gosden—Mr. Gosden to you!—and never mind this propalition hoocy. We came here to sign a contract.

CHAIRMAN—Awah, awah, awah! Andy, you ol' rascal, dat am good!

• • •

AMOS—Gentlemen, let's cease temporizing and indulging in dialectic badinage and get down to business.

CHAIRMAN—Sho', sho'. You sho' is right. Now, Amos 'n' Andy, we has here de legal dockaments, and will you kindly perusicate de propalition and asphyxiate yo' signatures?

AMOS—We shall gladly affix our signatures if the provisions of the contract are satisfactory and equable.

CHAIRMAN—Precede, precede. As you will conserve, de clauses ob de contrack bind de two mystic knights ob de sea to work fo' de Titanic Film Company, Incorpulated.

AMOS—Permit me and my associate, Mr. Gosden, to read the terms of the contract.

CHAIRMAN—Sho', sho'. Yass, sir! Here am de papers.

• • •

AMOS—As I understand it, Mr. Chairman, Article 7 of the contract provides $250,000 shall be the compensation for our services.

CHAIRMAN—Amos, you sho' is smart at figgers. De terms ob de propalition is dat you and Andy gits a quarter ob a million dollars. Ain't dat sumpin'?

ANDY—Mr. Correll and I consider that satisfactory remuneration.

CHAIRMAN—Andy, dat am jus' fine! Now if you will asphyxiate yo' significatures to de dockament, de meeting is adjudicated.

(Amos and Andy sign the contract.)

AMOS—And now, gentlemen, that we are legal partners in this deal, I suggest that at future meetings this board quit talking like a minstrel troupe and act like business men. That's what we are. We don't want to hear you talking about propalitions and incorpulateds any more than Rudy Vallee would enjoy a Board of Directors megaphoning in his ear. Get me?

CHAIRMAN—Yes, Mr. Correll.

AMOS—If you had said "Sho,' Sho' " to that, I'd have fractured your skull and broken the contract. And that's all to-day, gentlemen. We'll report for work in the morning.

THIS AND THAT

Another simile for Mr. Wilstach: As apologetic as a radio announcer announcing the next number on the program will be a phonograph record.

Free wheeling is a big advance in automobiles, but the greatest boon will be when it's applied to baby carriages.

Diet hint: When your face is peeling from sunburn, don't lean too far over when you're eating cornflakes.

We are waiting any day now to hear that Henry Ford has bought the St. Andrews golf course in Scotland to set up in his Dearborn back yard.

The cigaret people who are now trying to serve you with shadows will doubtless try ghost stories next.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."
Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

CHILD MIX-UP BECOMES MIXED

CHICAGO, —uly 25—The famous Chicago baby mix-up is even in a more muddled state tonight. A jury of scientists decided yesterday that the two three-weeks-old infants had been correctly tagged at birth, but confused at the hospital. As a result, Charles Bamberger's baby was in the William Watkins home and vice versa.

Watkins accepted the verdict, but Bamberger refused to do so.

A jury of physicians later declared that the children were in the right homes but the labels were mixed. Later the two fathers were reported to have agreed. Each family took back the infant it had been caring for all the time.

Watkins today, however, reported that the Bambergers have not agreed to any decision at all.

To which Bamberger answered: "They can debate until the cows come home, but we are going to keep the baby we've got."

City Health Commissioner Dr. Arnold H. Kegel, who tried to play the role of Solomon in the affair, said he was through with the whole thing.

Health Bureau Appropriation Is Increased

MARTINEZ, July 25—With the Rockefeller Foundation decreasing its appropriation for maintenance of the Contra Costa county Health Bureau under a cooperative agreement, the board of supervisors today ordered increased from $150 to $208.33 monthly the county's share of the $4000 annual salary of Dr. I. O. Church, bureau director.

The Rockefeller Foundaton entered into an agreement with the county to bear a share of the expense of maintenance for three years if the county reorganized its bureau to conform to foundation projects. Two years of the period have elapsed and the allowance of the foundation is decreasing. Next year the county will have to maintain the bureau without outside assistance.

U.S. POST OFFICE GROWTH IS TOLD

Considerable interesting data on the American postoffice was revealed yesterday by Everett Cohen, chairman of the Americanization committee of Richmond post of the American Legion.

July 26, 1775, the American Congress assumed direction of the postoffices, reappointing Benjamin Franklin, postmaster-general, he having formerly held that post under British rule, being removed in 1774. He was shortly after sent as ambassador to France, however, and his son-in-law, Richard Bache, succeeded him as postmaster-general in November, 1775.

In 1789, the number of postoffices was 75; in 1800 903; in 1825 5677; in 1875, 35,734; in 1900 76,688.

Until 1863 the rate of postage was based upon distance over which mails were conveyed. In 1848 the rate was 3c for 1-2 ounce if the distance was not over 300 miles, and 10c if exceeding that distance. In 1851 the rate was reduced to 3c for 3000 miles and 10c if over that distance.

The use of adhesive postage stamps was first authorized by Act of Congress, approved March 3, 1847, and on June 1, 1856, prepayment of postage by stamps affixed was made compulsory.

In 1863 uniform rate of postage without regard to distance was fixed at 3c an ounce and this was reduced to 2c on Oct. 1, 1885.

Free delivery was first started on March 3, 1863, being established on July 1 of that year in 49 cities, the number of carriers employed the first year being 685. Special delivery service was first established Oct. 1, 1885.

BUDGET TO BE CONSIDERED MONDAY

MARTINEZ, July 25.—A reduction in the tax levy for a hall of records was suggested today before the board of supervisors by represntatives of the California Taxpayers' association, Contra Costa unit.

The taxpayers' representatives informed the board that latest estimates indicated that only $275,000 would be needed for the construction of a new county office building. A program to raise $600,000 for the hall of records and reconstruction of the county jail was initiated last year by the board of supervisors. It included a levy of 20 cents.

The commiteee for the taxpayers' association, also stated that $75,000 would be sufficient for the remodeling of the court house and $50,000 would suffice for an addition to the county jail. This building program would total $400,000. The committee also suggested that quarters for women and a ward permitting separation of first offenders from hardened criminals be included in the jail addition.

These suggestions were suggested at the first hearing on the county budget, and may be discussed when the supervisors meet on Monday.

An appropriation to aid the fight for the bay barrier is also to be proposed at the supervisors' meeting.

Another item to be considered Monday is the conclusion in the budget of $20,000 as the first levy of a three year's program to raise $60,000 to match a similar appropriation from Alameda county to be used to acquire lands for a state park on Mt. Diablo. A $120,000 state appropriation will also aid the founding of the park.

A cut of approximately $4000 form budget requests of various county officers was made at yesterday's session of the board. It was also stated yesterday that a levy will not be necessary this year to meet the country's share of the construction of the new inter-county tunnel.

Bus Test To Be Made By Engineers

WASHINGTON, July 25—Tests of the impact of motor busses on modern highway surfaces will be initiated early next month by the Bureau of Public Roads, U. S. Department of Agriculture in cooperation with the Society of Automotive Engineers and the Rubber Manufacturers Association.

The War Department has made available for the tests a stretch of concrete paving at the Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Aberdeen, Md., and a manufacturer has loaned a large bus of interurban type which will be operated at speeds up to 50 or 60 miles an hour. It is expected that the tests will continue for about two months.

Apparatus developed in connection with the bureau's previous cooperative studies of motor-truck impact will be used to determine the magnitude of the impacts produced by large, heavily loaded busses equipped with various types and sizes of tires. The tires for the tests are to be furnished by the tire manufacturers and include both high-pressure and balloon types of the latest designs.

These studies of the impacts of bus traffic are the latest of a series of impact investigations the bureau has been making for the last ten or eleven years. The earliest studies dealt with the destructive effect on pavements of heavily loaded motor trucks, especially those with poor tire equipment. These tests demonstrated in a striking manner the protection afforded to pavements by the pneumatic tire and by the six-wheel vehicle, both of which are widely used today.

Two Papers At Pittsburg In New Merger

The result of the combine will bear the name of the Pittsburg Post-Dispatch. Meyer has been named president of the corporation, while John Tiedeman has been chosen vice-president and business manager. Fred Walker is editor and secretary. The consolidation will become effective Aug. 1.

After thirty years of publication, the final issue of the Post was printed today.

CROCKETT MAN SLUGGED BY ROBBER

VALLEJO, July 25. — —Albert Emslie, night clerk at the Community Center club at Crockett, who was attacked at midnight last night by a man who struck him from behind recovered consciousness at the Vallejo hospital this afternoon and was able to give police a slight description of his attacker.

Emslie told police he was attacked from behind as he went from the main section of the building to a storeroom to secure a gum vending machine.

The man, whom he described as tall and of heavy build and wearing a straw hat, purchased cigarettes a few moments before and had been directed to leave by a side door.

No Motive

Physicians said he was suffering from a slight fracture of the skull but would recover.

Reached Phone

Emslie, immediately after being slugged, managed to reach a telephone and ringing a nearby restaurant, asked the proprietor to spend over some of the employes of the California and Hawaiian Sugar company, who he knew would be at the establishment.

Michael Ryan, Mike Imes, Darrel Harsh and Neil Winship hurried to the club and found Emslie lying in a pool of his own blood.

"Is my cash alright?" he asked just before losing consciousness.

Cash Not Touched

There was about $300 in the cash register.

His glasses, one side broken and covered with blood, were found on the counter, and police advanced the theory the assailant had struck him as he reached for the cigarettes.

Police declare the cash was untouched, and believed robbery was the motive, but the intruder became frightened and fled.

R. INCE NEAR DEATH IN ACCIDENT

LOS ANGELES, July 25—Ralph Ince, famous motion picture director, is near death in a Los Angeles hospital, following a major operation to remove a three-inch fish-hook from the back of his skull.

Attending physicians admitted tonight that Ince was in danger and that he may not recover.

Early today Ince and a group of movie celebraties were fishing for deep sea fish off Malibu Beach.

New Egyptian Riots Feared

LONDON, July 25—According to dispatches received by the London Daily Express today, Egyptian Nationalists have decided to hold a session of parliament in definance to King Faud's cloture order.

The dispatch said that efforts will be made to prevent the meeting.

Encampment In Plans For Horseshoe Meet

Plans for an indoor horseshoe tourney were made at a meeting of the C. C. Encampment of Odd Fellows in the Odd Fellow hall last night.

Chief Patriarch J. H. Locke presided over the business meeting and horseshoe fans indulged in preliminary practice after the meeting.

It was announced that at the next meeting F. H. Hooper, a member of the lodge, will make a 15 minute extemporaneous speech on his life.

The evening was closed with refreshments and a pie-ala-mode eating contest which was won handily by Frank Rhoads, who, according to Lester Skow, ate somewhere in the neighborhood of four pies and nearly a gallon of ice cream.

They Overlooked the Diamonds

THERE is a modern flippancy to the effect that "What you don't know won't hurt you." It is also a fallacy. For instance:

The farmers of Kimberley were a disgusted, disheartened lot. They said the soil was too rocky to earn them a living. Some of them left. Others died in poverty.

But the farmers didn't know. They thought the priceless gems were pebbles.

Don't be like those Kimberley farmers. Know!

Don't seek opportunity in some distant place and overlook the diamonds that are daily within your grasp. Know!
